CANADA'S FOOD GUIDE: Get in the know for tasty and healthy meals from all food groups!

Canada's first food guide was introduced to the public in July of 1942. The food guide divides foods into certain categories, and then recommends an ideal amount of servings from each food group. These recommendations are based on scientific evidence in attempts to create nutrient standards for food and to prevent chronic diseases. Having the correct amount and type of food recommended will help meet your needs for vitamins, minerals, and other nutrients, as well as reduce your risk of obesity, type II diabetes, heart disease and osteoporosis.

The food guides recommend the following amount of servings per day:

- Children – 4-6 Vegetables
3-6 Grains
2-4 Milk
1-2 Meats
- Teenagers – 7-8 Vegetables
6-7 Grains
3-4 Milk
2-3 Meats
- Adults - 7-8 Vegetables
6-8 Grains
2-3 Milk
2-3 Meats

DID YOU KNOW?

Nerve impulses within your body can travel close to 400 feet per second! That is faster than Formula One race cars! However, different types of signals travel at different speeds. For example, if you stub your toe, you feel the pressure right away because touch signals travel at 250 feet per second, but you don't feel the pain for a few more seconds. This is because pain signals generally travel only two feet per second.

PATIENT TESTIMONIAL

I heard about Correactology® four years ago from a gentleman who was receiving treatments. I came to the Correactology® Center due to being diagnosed with first stage bladder cancer. Correactology® Health Care helped me beat the illness I had, giving me back the quality of life I so wanted to own again. I am forever grateful and will always refer people to this profound Health Care and the practitioner who did this for me.

I have and always will be recommending others to seek services at a Correactology® Center for helping me live the life I deserve and beat the cancer that I had.

I am eternally grateful. Thank you from my heart and soul.
